BEAUTY OF LIFE

Introduction

Beauty of Life is a collection of sixteen miniature paintings, each capturing a small fragment of a world filled with light, color, nature, dreams, and quiet moments.

Some of the paintings can stand alone, while others naturally come together, creating new stories and connections. A sunrise can lead into a sunset; a flower can meet another flower; a bird can share the same sky with a distant landscape.

These small circular canvases are invitations to pause and notice the beauty that surrounds us — not only in extraordinary places and moments, but also in the simple pleasures of everyday life.

A blooming tree, a glass of lemon juice, a quiet evening on a balcony, the soundless vastness of the ocean, or a single bird in the sky can become a precious memory when we truly allow ourselves to see it. Beauty of Life is a celebration of those moments — small in size, yet infinite in meaning.

1. SUNRISE

Sunrise is a promise
that every day can begin again.

The first light
touches the world
gently, reminding us
that beauty is often
born in the simplest
moments

2. SUNSET

Sunset is not an ending, but a tender farewell to the passing day. Within its golden light there is gratitude for what has been lived and a quiet peace before the night begins.

3. BLOOMING CHERRY

The blooming cherry tree is an image of fleeting yet perfect beauty.

Its delicate blossoms remind us to treasure the present moment — because its impermanence is what makes it so precious.

4. VIOLETS

Small, modest, and almost unnoticed, violets carry their beauty without asking for attention.

They are a memory of spring, of childhood, and of those little joys that remain quietly in our hearts.

5. LEMON JUICE

Freshness, sunshine, and
the taste of summer.
A simple glass of lemon juice becomes a little celebration — a reminder
that the beauty of life
also lives in ordinary pleasures.

6. NIGHT ON BALCONY

A balcony, a quiet
night, and a world
that seems different
after sunset.

It is a moment
when we are alone
with ourselves and
allow silence to
speak.

7. HAPPY BIRD

The bird owns
nothing but the sky
— and yet it is free.

It is a small
symbol of joy,
lightness, and the ability to find
happiness
wherever we are.

8. BLOOMING TREE

The tree blossoms
because nature
knows when it is time
for new life.

It carries the promise of spring and
the quiet message
that after every winter, there comes a
time to bloom again.

9. HORTENSIA

Many colors gathered
into one.

The hydrangea is like a small universe of
tenderness — abundant,
alive, and different from
every angle.

10. OCEAN

The ocean is vastness,
movement, and freedom.

Looking at it sets our thoughts free and reminds us how large the world is — and how much beauty is still waiting to be discovered.

11. POPPY FIELD

Red poppies transform the field into a sea of color.

There is both joy and silence in this image —
a celebration of summer
and a reminder of all
the moments that time
eventually carries away.

12. HAWAIIAN FLOWER
Exotic, radiant, and free, this flower carries the feeling of a distant island
and endless summer.
It is a little journey that
can begin with nothing more than a single glance.

13. GREAT PYRAMID OF GIZA

Against the endless space
of the desert, the pyramid stands as a witness to time.

It reminds us that human life is brief, yet our desire to create beauty can endure far beyond us.

14. STARRY NIGHT

The night sky opens a doorway into infinity.

Beneath the stars, we realize how small we are
— and at the same time,
how limitless our dreams
can be.

15. SPRING BOUQUET
A bouquet gathering the generosity of spring into one moment.
Every flower is like a small joy, and together
they transform the moment into a celebration of life.

16. LOTUS

The lotus rises from dark waters and reaches toward the light.

It is a symbol of beauty born through difficulties — of purity, hope, and the strength to bloom again.
